Dear Sir.

Alex. V. Kettles the agent here of the Waddell Entz Motor people was with me last Sunday overhauling the motor where one of the coils of the armature was burnt out and one also found water in the starting box from I suppose a leaky roof and although we are running yet Mr. Kettles thinks it advisable for us to have on hand another armature and starting box so that if anything did happen we could put the new part in right away and ship the old back to Bridgeport. Will you be kind enough to lay the matter before Mr. Starr. Mr. Kettles has already advised his people to have the two parts ready to ship at a moments notice. and I think it would be advisable to have them here.

I have plenty of letter heads but no slip such as I am now writing on. will you be kind enough to send me some and oblige

Yours Very Respectly

Dear Sir.

Alex. V. Kettles the agent here of the Waddell Entz Motor people was with me last Sunday overhauling the motor where one of the coils of the armature was burnt out and one also found water in the starting box from I suppose a leaky roof, and although we are running yet Mr. Kettles thinks it advisable for us to have on hand another armature and starting box so that if anything did happen we could put the new part in right away and ship the old back to Bridgeport. Will you be kind enough to lay the matter before Mr. Shaw. Mr. Kettles has already advised his people to have the two parts ready to ship at a moments notice and I think it would be advisable to have them here.

I have plenty of letter heads but no slip such as I am now writing on. Will you be kind enough to send me some and oblige.

Yours Very Respectfully,
N.S. Beekley
